

IHE Services team achieves ISO/IEC 17025 accreditation

- Press Release -

May 20, 2014 - IHE Services, an operation of IHE-Europe to support professional interoperability testing in eHealth, and KEREVAL, a French leading independent engineering laboratory renowned for its testing excellence, have jointly been accredited ISO/IEC 17025 by COFRAC (Comité Français d'Accréditation) for IHE conformity and interoperability testing. This provides for the first time an independent way of testing software from suppliers in the field of ICT healthcare for selected IHE Integration Profiles compliance and at the strictest quality level. The initial scope will include a first selection of IHE Integration Profiles covering critical interoperability issues. Gradually the scope of supported IHE Integration Profiles will be expanded, with the goal to achieve the full interoperability spectrum in ICT healthcare.

All information about this new quality recognition of IHE Services / KEREVAL will be featured on www.ihe-europe.net/ihe-services.

If you would like to know more about the collaboration between IHE Services and KEREVAL, please read the interviews on this site with Abdelmoula Tamoudi (CEO, KEREVAL), Raphaëlle Batogé (Quality Manager, KEREVAL), Eric Poiseau (IHE Services Team Manager) and members of the IHE Services Team.

Raphaëlle Batogé, Quality Manager KEREVAL:

“With the ISO 17025 accreditation of COFRAC we are now a fully recognised scientific test centre. This makes it possible to guarantee the quality of test results, especially for ICT healthcare”

More information:

Cor Loef,
General Manager IHE Services
Email: cor.loef@ihe-services.net
www.ihe-europe.net/ihe-services
www.kereval.com

ISO/IEC 17025 accredited testing by COFRAC: www.cofrac.fr/annexes/sect1/1-2347.pdf

About KEREVAL

KEREVAL is an independent engineering laboratory for testing, known as a specialist in software quality. It is active in several areas of health, automotive, telecom, banking and insurance.

With over 12 years of experience KEREVAL advises clients to professionalise their approach to software quality and assists them in the development of their test strategy, the establishment of their test teams up to and including certification according to ISTQB/CFTL.

KEREVAL now has over 40 people working mainly in the western part of France and the Paris area. In 2013 the company achieved a turnover of € 2.8 million.

About IHE Services

IHE Services is the operational unit of IHE-Europe to support Members and beneficiaries seeking to build trust in the deployment of IHE profiles in their solutions and projects through IHE Services professional testing team. Services provided include the development of customised validation and conformity test tools, the organisation of test sessions and demonstrations, training and consultancy on implementation of the IHE profiles in the beneficiary's projects and programs. Beneficiaries are national or regional e-health projects, HIT users in hospitals or vendors developing new systems. IHE Services offers a unique suite of tools and services used during the connectivity marathons, or Connectathons, worldwide.